

Restaurant Trans Fat Scorecard
TOP 20 U.S. RESTAURANT CHAINS

RESTAURANT	STATUS
1. McDonald's	Still testing trans-free oils in the U.S.; Promised to make a switch in 2002
2. KFC	Switching to trans-free oils for frying by the end of April 2007
3. Burger King	Currently uses oils with trans fats; Plans to conduct tests on alternatives in the coming months
4. Pizza Hut	Mostly trans-free; working to avoid trans fats in pizza crusts
5. Wendy's	Switched to trans-free corn and soy oils in June 3006
6. Subway	Mostly trans-free; reformulated cookies to get rid of trans fat
7. Taco Bell	Will try in trans-free canola oil by April 2007 for most items; some other items will still contain trans fat
8. Domino's Pizza	Mostly trans-free, but garlic dipping sauce has 7 grams of trans fat
9. Starbucks	Drinks and seasonal baked goods were trans-free by fall 2006, other bakery items still contain trans fat
10. Applebee's	In the process of switching to healthier oils; new menu items and 2/3 of bakery and bread products now trans-free
11. Dunkin' Donuts	Removed trans fat from muffins and cookies; working on alternatives for danishes and doughnuts
12. Chili's	Switched to healthier trans-free oils in spring 2006
13. Arby's	French fries are trans-free, and 75% of the menu will have less than half a gram of trans fat per serving by May 2007
14. Sonic Drive-In	No progress
15. Outback Steakhouse	No progress
16. Dairy Queen	No progress
17. T.G.I. Friday's	No progress
18. 7-Eleven	No progress
19. Red Lobster	Will be trans-free by November 2007
20. Jack in the Box	No progress