Turning off the Source?
Public Health Impact of California’s 2003 Ban of Raw Gulf Coast Oysters*

* California is one of the four states used to set Vv policy.

In April 2003, California public health officials banned the sale of raw oysters harvested in warm months from the Gulf of Mexico. One death occurred in March 2003.